DETAILED ACTION

Drawings

1. The drawings are objected to because the shading makes details unclear after scanning, and new drawings should be provided. Corrected drawing sheets are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The figure or figure number of an amended drawing should not be labeled as "amended." If a drawing figure is to be canceled, the appropriate figure must be removed from the replacement sheet, and where necessary, the remaining figures must be renumbered and appropriate changes made to the brief description of the several views of the drawings for consistency. Additional replacement sheets may be necessary to show the renumbering of the remaining figures. The replacement sheet(s) should be labeled "Replacement Sheet" in the page header (as per 37 CFR 1.84(c)) so as not to obstruct any portion of the drawing figures. If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Objections

1. Claim 1 is objected to because of the following informalities: a period is required at the end of claim 1. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1 and 4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Napiorkowski et al., US Patent 5,567,916. A wire management grommet 2 comprising an outer peripheral member 4 and an inner perforate member (10, 18), said outer peripheral member being constructed and arranged to frictionally engage a planar surface, said outer member being formed from a first material having sufficient mechanical stiffness for effective frictional engagement; said inner perforate member being over-molded about said outer peripheral member to form a unitary wire management device, and being formed from a second material having sufficient flexibility to permit passage of disparate cable combinations (note figures 6 and 7; column 4, lines 29-32); said inner perforate member having a plurality of radially dispersed openings (14, 6) constructed and arranged for strain-free engagement of plural disparate cable combinations; whereby upon passage of said plural disparate combination of cables therethrough, said inner perforate member returns to its original configuration, due to the elastic material of construction. The inner perforate member (10, 18) being formed as a disk having a center point and an outer perimeter, said disk including a plurality of radial slits 20 extending therethrough and a corresponding number of radially arranged apertures (14, 16) proximate the outer perimeter; wherein each radial slit extends from said center point to intersect said corresponding aperture; whereby upon passage of said plural disparate combination of cables therethrough, said inner perforate member 18 returns to its original configuration for strain-free engagement of plural disparate cable combinations.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 2, 3, 5, and 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Napiorkowski. The claimed device is disclosed except for the specific materials of construction. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have elected the use of such materials, since it has been held to be within the general skill of a worker in the art to select a known material on the basis of its suitability for the intended use as a matter of obvious design choice. In re Leshin, 125 USPQ 416. See also Ballas Liquidating Co. v. Allied industries of Kansas, Inc. (DC Kans) 205 USPQ 331. Such a modification is not critical to the design and would have produced no unexpected results.
